WILSON CLOSES CAMPAIGN WORK

Addresses Great Throng in Madison Square Garden.

(By the International News Service.) New York, Nov. 2.—President Wilson was today by a mighty crowd of Democrats which filled every available space in and about Madison Square Garden to-night that he was certain of re-election on November 7.

Mr. Wilson arrived at the Twenty-seventh street entrance of the Madison Square Garden Amphitheater at 9 o'clock. It took the police seven minutes to force a passage way through the throng.

In perfect rhythm the audience began to chant "Four, four, four years more—four, four, four years more we want Wilson!" This demonstration lasted for fifteen minutes before Mr. Wilson raised his hands for quiet. The crowd started again, but in eight minutes more a hush fell over the audience.

Mr. Wilson said that the United States was face to face with one of the most serious turning points in the history of the country.

"The campaign may be said to be practically at an end," he said, "but we should give serious thought to what it has disclosed. We find again that a small body of men are seeking to control the business development of the country."

Touching briefly on foreign relations, Mr. Wilson charged:

"Some men have even sought to discredit our own government in the face of the delicate foreign situation. They have sought to shame the country for personal or political advantage."

The eight-hour law and many other topics already discussed by the President during the campaign were mentioned briefly.

Speaks at Cooper Union.

In concluding his address, Mr. Wilson said with dramatic emphasis:

"The forces of the nation are gathering from a demonstration of the power of public opinion on November 7, in a way the world has never seen before."

The Madison Square Garden speech was the second of the day. At a luncheon tendered by the Business Men's League in the Waldorf, more than 1,000 persons heard Mr. Wilson expound the issues which he had based his campaign on.

The third speech was made at Cooper Union, after 10 o'clock tonight.

Confusion and some amusement were caused by a mistake in seating arrangements at the President's table during the noon luncheon.

Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo was assigned to a place at the right of William F. McCombs, Senatorial candidate in New York.

Mr. McCombs and Mr. McAdoo were very active in electing Mr. Wilson four years ago, but since that time, a story goes, their friendship has not been of the sort that placed them together at public functions.

When the two gentlemen observed the mistake that had been made, they turned and bowed formally. They did not shake hands.

LITIGATION AFFECTS THOUSAND MARRIAGES

Legality of Many Unions May Be Questioned in Illinois.

(By the International News Service.) Chicago, Nov. 2.—Legality of several thousand marriages in Illinois hinges upon the case of Morris W. Babb, vaudeville actor, indicted upon charges of illegally marrying Mrs. Grace Rothbert Babb on her deathbed in order to legalize the name of her son, 16. Mrs. Rothbert's estate of $65,000 is involved.

The indictment was returned under the Illinois law prohibiting the remarriage of divorced persons within one year. Mrs. Rothbert was not divorced from her husband until many years after she and Babb had been living together.

The last legislature passed a law providing that an act performed in another State for the obvious purpose of evading a law of Illinois becomes void in this State since the law went into effect many residents of Illinois have gone to Crown Point, Ind., to evade it.

This is the first test of the new law, and its decision is awaited with anxiety in many Chicago homes.

Had to Leave Honolulu in Time to Vote in California.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 2.—W. N. Thomas, Judge of the Superior Court at Santa Ana, Cal., arrived here on the Madison liner Lurline from Honolulu, having technically worked his way as an oiler.

The Lurline was the last liner that would reach California in time for the Presidential election, but because of an accident the vessel could not carry passengers.

Judge Thomas felt he should vote and shipped as a member of the crew.

Wilson Auto Held Up By Hughes Boom Wagon

(By International News Service.) New York, Nov. 2.—While President Wilson was on his way from the Grand Central Station to the Mayflower in an automobile today the party was held up by a wagon on which were huge banners bearing the words: "Vote for Hughes and Fairbanks."

Both the President and Mrs. Wilson laughed heartily at the incident.

INSPECT U-LINER

Naval Officers Report Status as "Merchantman."

(By the International News Service.) New London, Nov. 2.—The status of the German submarine Deutschland was officially found to be that of a merchantman "exactly the same as she was when in Baltimore," by a party of naval officers in a thorough inspection this afternoon.

An official report was drafted to be telegraphed to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, who will refer it to the Navy Department.

Several large boxes, the contents of which are ambiguously invoked as "effects," furnish the mystery of the Deutschland at this particular time.

These boxes are supposed to contain articles that make up the greater part of the valuation of $10,000,000 placed upon the cargo of the Deutschland by Capt. Koenig.

What the articles are is unknown. Some say precious stones. Some say securities. Seventy-five black stevedores were brought here from Baltimore today to handle the cargo.

With few exceptions, they are the same men who unloaded and re-loaded the Deutschland off Locust Point.

The people of New London are preparing a big banquet to the commander and men of the Deutschland. It will be held on November 8.

Mayor Rogers, of New London, and numerous officials and citizens were permitted aboard the boat today, but news-people were still barred.

The rules against visitors, as laid down by Capt. Koenig, and the officials of the Eastern Forwarding Company, are apparently very rigid, but none the less quite a crowd saw the boat today.

GIRLS OFFERED $10,000 EACH FOR GOOD DINNER

Grandmother's Odd Bequest Puts Premium on Culinary Skill.

(By the International News Service.) New York, Nov. 2.—Ten thousand dollars for cooking a good dinner.

That's the sum which will stand to the credit of Peggy, Helen and Margaret Zinsler, if they can broil a steak and prepare a dinner and present an inviting dessert. As each qualifies, her bank account will be increased $10,000 by the executors of her grandmother's will.

The grandmother, Mrs. Marie Zinsler, a widow, died October 28 last. She left a will, filed today in the Surrogate's Court, which contains the following odd provisions:

"Whereas my late husband and I, in a certain year, agreed to give the sum of $10,000 to each of our granddaughters, if she prepared a meal under certain conditions, fully set forth in the letter."

"And whereas, my daughter, Ellen, has received her $10,000, I give three sums of $10,000 each to my executors, to hold the same in trust until such time as my granddaughters, Peggy, Helen and Margaret, comply with the conditions set forth in said letter."

Peggy is a student at Smith College. Helen is a student at Bryn Mawr, and Margaret lives with her father in this city.

DELAYS VERDICT ON MARINA CASE

U. S. Not to Act Until After Election Day.

Secretary Lansing announced yesterday that the State Department's decision in the Marina case would not be reached before November 7. He left Washington last night for his home at Watertown, N. Y., to remain until after the election.

The department's decision will be determined by three facts now under investigation:

1. Whether the ship was torpedoed without warning and without provision being made for the safety of passengers and crew if the Marina was a peaceable merchantman.

2. Whether the Marina was armed offensively.

3. Whether she had previously been in admiralty service, which finding would create a presumption against her peaceable character.

Secretary Lansing admitted that it is a mooted question whether Germany's promise to the United States relating to submarine warfare applied to vessels carrying guns.

The United States holds that merchant vessels have the right to arm for defense, but no conclusion regarding the subject ever was reached with Germany, who upholds a different policy.

A question was raised in the Lusitania case, but dropped when it was proved that the Lusitania carried no armament.

FALKENHAYN ADVANCES IN MOUNTAIN REGION

Austro-German Armies Reported Approaching Rumanian Plain.

(By the International News Service.) London, Nov. 2.—That Gen. von Falkenhayn's Austro-German armies have advanced twenty-two miles across the mountains from Kronstadt is indicated in official statements from Petrograd to-night, which reports the repulse of Teuton attacks at Chelista.

Gen. Falkenhayn's advance is going on slowly but irresistibly and that at his present rate of progress he soon will have left the mountain barrier completely behind and be then in a position to maneuver in the vast Rumanian plain which stretches flat as a board down to Bucharest, eighty miles from Campolung.

Von Falkenhayn is now declared to be only a short distance north of the latter town.

In his latest advance, Berlin announces, 200 prisoners were taken. Both Alstchian and Predal passes have been left behind. They, with Rothenthurm pass, which also has been carried, were the backbone of Rumanian defense on this part of the front.

Further to the west the Rumanians report some new successes in the Jiu Valley, while the offensive movement is said by Petrograd to be continuing along the Alt River.

Tonight's official statement from Petrograd says:

"On the Transylvanian front, thirty-five versts from Kronstadt a Rumanian detachment repulsed the enemy, inflicting heavy losses and taking prisoners, machine guns and a searchlight."

"In the valleys of the Jiu and the Alt our offensive continues."

"In Dobruja there was only scant activity."

Hughes' Odds 10 to 8; One Wager at 10 to 6

(By International News Service.) New York, Nov. 2.—Betting in Wall Street on the Presidential race took a turn in favor of Hughes today.

Although approximately $25,000 was wagered at odds ranging from 10 to 1 to 6-1 in favor of Hughes, one wager of $1,000 against $600 was reported.

In the late afternoon, however, Hughes was quoted a 10-to-8 favorite, with Wilson supporters asking 10 to 7. One small bet of $1,000 to $150 was made late in the day and one of $10,000 to $3,000 on Hughes.

COLONEL RIDDLES WILSON ADDRESS

Answers Buffalo Speech. Charges Misuse of Militia.

(By the International News Service.) Cleveland, Ohio, November 2.—Welcome by 50,000 and cheered almost five minutes, Theodore Roosevelt took President Wilson's Buffalo address as his text and ripped into the Democratic administration in his usual hammer-and-tong style here tonight.

Upon his arrival, he was greeted by 5,000 at the station and escorted by a torchlight procession through streets jammed with people to the Central Armory.

Roosevelt referred caustically to Secretary of War Baker's comparison of Washington's soldiers with Villa bandits. In referring to President Wilson, Roosevelt said:

"I want to register my protest against the misuse of the militia and the diplomatic service for partisan advantage. If the President says we are in ignorance of our foreign relations, he is bound to enlighten us. If he does not tell us now there must be some reason for it."

"He says: 'We are not afraid to fight for something as big as an American ideal.' What does that mean? Does it mean he wouldn't fight for a mud baby? There were 100 babies on the Lusitania. Is there anything bigger in American ideals?"

"He sent Boyd and Adair into Mexico—and left them there. He wouldn't back them up. What does Mr. Wilson mean by bigger than American ideals? What can be bigger than protecting men and women born under the American flag or naturalized under it?"

A sharp attack placed them in possession of additional Teuton positions and enabled them to bring in another 200 prisoners, increasing the number of Germans taken during the last twenty-four hours to nearly 700.

The weather is clearing along the Somme and operations on a large scale will, it is expected, be resumed soon. The sun shone for a time today and indications are that clear cold weather will replace the storms of the last week.

The Germans today admit yesterday's successes of the French on the Les Boeuifs sector. Their claim that they penetrated into the northern part of Sally is denied by the war office.

GERMANS BEAT RUSS AFTER THREE CHARGES

Fighting on Galician Front of Give and Take Order.

(By the International News Service.) London, Nov. 2.—In give-and-take fighting on the Galician front, where it has been impossible to impose any drag on military operations, the central allies yesterday won a considerable victory. The battle opened in the morning. Three times the German waves were thrown back.

Then the German heavy artillery was called into play to prepare for a fourth assault. After a withering bombardment, Gen. von Dittfurth's gray-clad troops were unleashed again.

This time they succeeded in winning the coveted positions.
